1. Provide air plenums with hinged, sealed access doors and lighting for inspection of each chamber. The doorsill should be not higher than 75 mm. Secure doors with heavy duty quick access fittings operational from both sides of the door. Arrange door swings so that the fan static pressure holds the door in a closed position.

2. Use vibration control in ductwork to maintain acceptable noise levels in occupied spaces.